BLINDFOLDED AUTO DRIVER PERFORMED PERFECTLY

From Wednesday's Daily:

Driving a new Chrysler roadster, handling his machine with perfect ease and safety, Hayward Thompson, internationally known as the "Wizard of the Blindfold," created a sensation throughout Corsicana Wednesday afternoon.

Thompson made a public display of his peculiar powers of exercising what seemed to be perfect vision in rushing his car through the busy traffic congested streets of the city without violating a single traffic regulation, obeying all traffic light signals, and pulling around other cars and giving ample space for passing pedestrians throughout the entire itinerary, which seemed marvelous. He guarantees not to scratch a fender or do the least damage, and on starting out warns others to be as particular about driving as he is.

Thousands of Corsicanans turned out in their cars to follow Thompson in his rounds. Streets were blocked with pedestrians eager to see the performance.

Thompson appeared here under the auspices of the McDonald Motor Company, agents for the Chrysler cars. The drive started from West Third avenue at exactly 1:30 o'clock after Thompson was blindfolded by County Attorney Ballard W. George. He wore a blindfold of twelve-lies of heavy black silk that was pinned and buckled taunt about his face. Elastic bands were placed around his head at the top and bottom, shutting out all light from his eyes.

Large, curious crowds gathered at the McDonald Motor Company salesrooms to see the performance start off. The blindfold wizard said he drives a Chrysler, for he owns one, and spoke of the good features of the car, saying it was easy of control in steering, has a quick pick-up of speed, and is equipped with four wheel brakes.

Thompson gave a short demonstration of ambidextrous handwriting before starting on his itinerary Inside McDonald Motor Company's salesrooms he used his left hand in writing backwardly a number of sentences which were read in regular style from the outside.

At the announced time for departure Thompson took his seat in the car and waved the crowds back with his hands and started down to the Beaton street intersection, stopping sharply to observe the first red traffic light.

The Chrysler roadster was followed closely behind by a city policeman on a motorcycle, who had some difficulty at times in keeping up with him. Long strings of cars drove in chase of the blindfolded driver.

Claude McDonald in a new Imperial 80 ninety-two horsepower Chrysler touring car, followed after him. Down Beaton street the procession went and all lights and signals were obeyed with nicety. He turned west on Seventh avenue and reaching South Eighteenth street, turned north to Fourth avenue and east to Fifteenth street, and north to Second avenue, and west again. He led the procession a merry chase on West Second to the State Orphans' Home. Cars endeavoring to keep up with him fell out of the race by the wayside and lined up along Second avenue to wait for his return. At the State Home Claude McDonald pulled in ahead of him and the return was made through heavy traffic to Twenty-fifth street, then turned north to Maplewood, east on that street to Twenty-fourth and south to second Avenue, again east to Mills Place, and made the loop through Mills Place, back into Second avenue, then east to Eleventh street. He pulled in ahead of the column at Eleventh and turned south, obeying all traffic signals, parking his car in front of the Corsicana Daily Sun office, where a photograph was made of Thompson standing in the roadster.

After a few special demonstrations of sight through the hands by which the perception of sight is afforded the wizard through the bare, ungloved skin, he backed his car out and drove south to Seventh avenue, turned east to Beaton, up Beaton to Collin, east to Tenth north up Tenth to Third avenue, west to Beaton and down Beaton to the Reese Jewelry store where he parked the roadster and substituted it with a Chrysler touring car. The touring car was backed out and driven at a high rate of speed to the Union Station, making the loop around Allyn Park back up Beaton to Third avenue, turned around, and went south on Beaton. He parked the touring car near Roderick's clothing store, and walked back to the Reese Jewelry Store and got the roadster and drove it back to the place of beginning.

Thompson says the power by which he is able to see though thoroughly blindfolded, comes through the skin. To put gloves on his hands there would be no skin exposed to the light and therefore he would be powerless.

The faculty, he says, is dormant in every person, and by reason of a wound inflicted on his forehead which for a time totally blinded him, this faculty was made active.

Thompson was wounded on the forehead by a German shell during the war while fighting with the Marines in France. From the wound he suffered not only total blindness for a time but also a complete loss of memory. After a time his sight returned and the jar of the wound, it is claimed by scientific men, made active the subconscious vision which is transmitted from the outside world to his brain through the skin.

When a drive is made blindfolded, which is done following twenty-four hours of fasting, no impression is made on his objective memory and he has no recollection of the stunt thereafter, or of anything that takes place during the interval.

The stunt attracted more attention and created more interest and exsitement than anything of a publicity nature here in years.

BITTER COLD COMES IN WAKE OF SECOND NEW YORK BLIZZARD

MANY DEATHS FOLLOW HEAVY SNOW STORM AND COLD WAVE

By Associated Press.

New York, Feb. 11.—Bitter cold today followed on the heels of the second blizzard, in a week that buried Northeastern United States under two feet of snow, took sixteen lives and held that section virtually snowbound for twenty-four hours.

Adding to the heavy snowfall of last week, which took thirty-two lives in the East, yesterday's storm choked the roads everywhere, delayed railroad traffic, particularly in the surburban districts and heaped up drifts from ten to twelve feet high in many sections of New England.

The storm in Chicago took three lives.

While the East struggled through snow drifts, Colorado, Montana and Wyoming were basking in the warm sunshine.

By Associated Press.

New York, Feb. 11.—New York's six million inhabitants were virtually snowbound Wednesday. The greater city lay as a giant paralyzed as the second blizzard within a week disrupted train service, all but paralyzed surface traffic and motor transportation and buffeted shipping within and without the port.

At noon, nine inches of snow had fallen since Tuesday night and the storm was raging more fiercely than ever. The snow was borne upon a 52-mile gale.

The blizzard was general through approximately the same districts of Northeastern United States as those which were buried under the storm of last week. Deaths and heavy property damage were reported throughout the section. Six persons were known to be dead; three members of the crew of the schooner Ralph Brown, driven ashore near Gloucester, Mass.; Capt. Alfred W. Ogle, U. S. M. C., killed by a locomotive at Boston; a track walker killed in New York, and one death from exposure reported from Philadelphia.

Thousands of commuters, delayed by impassable streets in the suburbs, were further delayed in reaching their offices because of the narrow trails which had replaced the broad sidewalks in the metropolis. Thousands of persons trailed single file from the railroad terminals to their places of business. Taxicabs which had reaped a harvest since the previous storm for bumping fares over frozen drifts, found themselves beleaguered by fresh snow banks.

The army of 19,000 snow shovelers which has been at work since last Thursday in an effort to clear away the streets, Wednesday fell back to strategic thoroughfares which must be kept open. Wednesday's fall, added to that of last week, gave the city an average depth of 20 inches of snow in less than a week. Where this was piled up by the wind and snow ploughs, the drifts reached a depth as great as six feet.

The three men who drowned lost their lives when they, with other members of the crew, went back to the schooner to get their clothes and other belongings after she had been washed close to the shore. The others managed to get off before a huge wave struck the 100 foot craft and drove her further out to sea, but the victims found themselves helpless as the ship was battered by the roaring breakers. The vessel was pounded to pieces.

MAKING POULTRY PAY.

The following editorial which appeared in a recent issue of the Denison Herald will be of interest in Corsicana and Navarro county just at this time, as a Poultry Show is to be staged here at an early date:

"Poultry raisers in Grayson county evidently are seizing an opportunity to draw their share of profit from a very remunerative industry

"One Sherman firm paid approximately $50,000 for poultry, eggs and dairy products during the month of January. A number of other firms in Denison and Sherman bought these commodities in quantities that probably compare with that of the firm mentioned. These figures show that hundreds of thousands of dollars are paid out annually in Grayson county for these products.

"Under the auspices of the Grayson County Poultry Association, a co-operative poultry marketing association is being sponsored and an organization is expected to be perfected soon. Without a doubt, this will add much impetus to the industry. Co-operative poultry production and marketing aids the purchaser as well as the seller.

"When farmers organize for the purpose of producing a large quantity of any commodity, with the intention of marketing it co-operatively, the purchaser is given assurance that he will have a regular source from which to draw. He grows accustomed to depending upon the home source.

"Having established the merchant faith in his ability to supply the demand, the farmer is in a position to sell a large quantity of his produce at attractive prices.

"There is no doubt that if Grayson county farmers can produce a large and steady supply of poultry products the market will be expanded to more than take care of the production.

"At a time when the doctrine of les cotton and more food and feed is being advocated this movement on the part of Grayson county farmers is especially opportune.

"By proper development the poultry in this county could be made to yield a greater return than that now received from cotton.

PART OF HER VARIETY

Some commentator has said that had Cleopatra's nose been somewhat longer the entire face of the world would have been changed, the implication being that an inch more of proboscis would have marred her fatal beauty to such an extent that Caesar and Antony would have done little warring because of her. Now, the world being as it is, the head of the department of English of Princeton University wants to know if Cleopatra hopped and if so, why? One of the minor characters of "Antony and Cleopatra" states seeing the beautiful queen hop forty paces along the street.

Perhaps it was just part of her varied activities. Another character in the same play, commenting on her, says:

Age cannot wither her,
Nor custom stale her infinite variety.

The professor is puzzled about the hopping because Spakespeare took much of the material for his play from Plutarch's Lives and Plutarch makes no mention of the Egyptian having any habit of hopping. However, he does cite an instance to prove she was a practical joker and indulged in one at the expense of Antony. The latter, wishing to show off as an angler, had some ill-luck. They just were not biting, so he had a diver attach a fish to his hook and pulled it up. Cleopatra on the bank, observed the deception and when Antony went to fish the next day she had one of her divers attach a salt fish to the Roman warrior's hook. Thinking he had a real "bite" he pulled up, providing Cleopatra with a laugh. Charmian refers to the incident in "Antony and Cleopatra" but no details are given.

As to the hopping, not all the bard used was from Plutarch. Cleopatra, in her lighter moods, may have been dancing along the street. The action might have been described as hopping by one irreverent observer and another might have said she was prancing. Anyway, it did not change the face of the world, whereas a longer nose on her face might have done so.

WHAT'S YOUR LETTER?

Have you ever been chased by a letter? No, not the sort of letter that you forget to mail for your wife in the morning, but one of the family of 26 in the alphabet. The wise men who study etymology, that high-sounding science of language, are about to spring a surprise. They will tell you that men of notable careers quite often center the high spots in their lives about one letter; that this process is unconscious, and that the letter soon takes to pursuing the personage who has stepped on its tail, and thereafter gets involved in all his doings.

You don't put much stock in that? Well, you needn't, but a notable example of the theory, which, by the way, smirks quite a bit of superstition, will serve to illustrate.

The example of Napoleon. M was his letter. Six of his marshalls, 26 of his division generals had the initial M. His two marriages and the birth of his son occurred in March. Marsailles, Marbouef first saw Napoleon's genius. His crucial battles included Montenotte, Mantua, Milesimo, Mondivo, Marengo, Malta, Mont Thabor, Montmirvil, Morman's, Montereau, Mery, Montemartre, and, at Waterloo, Mont St. Jean.

Metternich worsted him in diplomacy. Moreau betrayed him. He surrendered to Captain Maitland. His last residence in France was Malmaison. At St. Helena his companion was Montholon and his valet Marchand. He died in May

According to those who make a study of the oil situation there are yet many millions of barrels of oil to be recovered in Navarro county. There is little doubt that development in this section of the state is still in its infancy.

The day of free publicity is passing—don't ask for it. All newspapars are putting the "free stuff" on the blacklist. White space in any modern newspaper is just as valuable as any other commodity for sale.

Make your arrangements to attend the Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday, Feb. 16. An educational and interesting program is promised which will mean much to the entire community.

Your own home community has just as many good points as any other community. All you have to do is to recognize them and lay the hammer aside.

If fast trains are going to zip through Corsicana without a stop block signals should be installed for the protection of human life.

A few things to keep in mind: A Legion Memorial Auditorium, Good Roads, a permanent Fair Plant, a Junior College.

Ideal weather conditions are now prevailing in this section of the country which are welcomed by merchant and farmer alike.

Know your own community. Investigate the many investment opportunities that are knocking at your money at home.

If she monopolizes a party line for three hours and eighteen minutes to describe a frock, that's a filibuster.

According to many of the old-timers the authentic groundhog day comes Febrary 14.

AGRICULTURE WAS DISCUSSED BY MEET OF LIONS TUESDAY

The Corsicana Lions Club held an agricultural program at its meeting held at the Navarro Hotel dining room noon Tuesday. Speakers were J. L. Halbert and John T. Fortson. Lion Norwood had charge of the program and introduced the speakers. Luncheon was served by Mrs. Rundell, proprietor of the dining room service.

President R. A. Caldwell presided. Visitors today were J. H. Woods, P. B. Maddrey of Dallas; M. L. Moore and Ballard W. George

Lions Lawrence Treadwell and C. W. Taylor will have charge of the program for next week, President Caldwell announced.

President Caldwell stated that Lions International had started a movement whereby there would be placed in the school buildings of the country a code gotten up along the lines of the work of the club. He appointed Lions Hastings, Norwood, Butler, McCammon and Tripp a committee to look after this matter for the local club.

Lion Roy Christian announced that the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce will be held next Tuesday night, February 16, at the Y. M. C. A., at which time Nathan Adams, president of the American Exchange National bank, will be the principal speaker. The program for that night will have an agricultural bearing. He announced also that Victor L. Schoffelmayer, agricultural editor of the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News, will speak here at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon on the "More Cotton on Fewer Acres" contest being conducted throughout Texas by those papers. He urged all landowners and business men to hear Mr. Schoffelmayer, who will speak at the court house.

Lion Norwood announced the entertainment to be given by the Nevin Club at the high school Friday night, featuring the Zimmer Harp Trio.

Lions Halbert and Fortson spoke on diversification of farming and the financing end of the farm industry in Navarro county. Their lectures were in keeping with the five year program of better farming and increased acreage production and the decrease of cotton acreage.

Lion Halbert said he had always been, and still is, a diversificationist, and hopes to see more ground planted to garden crops. Lion Fortson spoke from the banker's standpoint, stating that landlords were being required to sign notes for their tenants in cases where last year notes had not been paid. He stressed diversification, saying "Let Navarro county feed Navarro county."

Both speakers declared that it is known some farmers buy food from stores than can be well and profitably raised on the farm and in the garden. These articles of food cost the farmer vast sums of money, which could be saved by planting more garden crops.

The question of landlords being required to sign their tenants' notes gave rise to considerable round-table discussion. Some believe that more returns can be gotten from the lands by a wage and overseer system than by the share tenant plan.

All appeared heartily in favor and will give their time and efforts in assisting in carrying out the more cotton on fewer acres and more feed on more acres five year program.

KERENS FARMERS PLANTING CORN AND SMALL GRAIN NOW

Special to the Sun.

Kerens, Texas, Feb. 9.—Farmers are planting corn and oats this week. Grocers report large sales of seed corn and other grain seed. Garden planting by many Kerens people is being completed. According to statements from farmers much more acreage will be planted in grain and feedstuff here this spring than was planted last year. The ground has the best season of many years now, and fair weather for the next two weeks is hoped for.

Missionary Society.

The Missionary Society of Mar Avenue Methodist church met Manday afternoon Feb. 8, with a good attendance and as it was a beautiful spring-like day, every one came in with a lovely smile and happy to meet all. The president read a chapter, then called for prayer by the writer, then having the minutes read of the last meeting, and as we had to plan a little more on the program to be rendered on Friday night, Feb. 12, of our box and pie supper. Then the meeting was turned over to the writer for a missionary program or discussion for which I based my few remarks on selfishness and how much do we care for our brothers in the foreign fields. This is a question we all can ask ourselves and pray that we as a whole and as God's children will not be selfish, but lend a helping hand to those in need. That was Jesus' mission on earth to help those in need. Pray for us.

ROUTINE BUSINESS PASSED ON MONDAY BY COMMISSIONERS

Routine business was taken up at the afternoon session of the Navarro county commissioners' court Monday. Claims for the hospital were presented and allowed; the tick eradication problem was discussed, and the minutes of previous meetings were read and approved.

According to the report of th Neavarro county hospital for the month of January, the expense of the hospital for the month amounted to $2,774.73 and the receipts amounted to $2,432.38, showing a loss of $342.45. County Auditor J. M. Tullos was authorized to transfer $350.00 from the general fund to the hospital fund to make up the deficiency. According to the report, there were seventy-four patients at the institution during the month.

W. F. Montfort, tick inspector for the county, appeared before the court relative to the tick eradication work in the county at the present time. He stated that a man was badly needed at Kerens and at Streetman at the present time and he asked the court to aid in the securing of the needed men. It was stated that one of the district officials of the tick eradication work would be in Corsicana Tuesday and would meet with the court relative to that matter.

Russie Davis, aged negress, of the Kerens community, was placed on the pauper roll and will be given $7.50 per month effective February, 1926. Miss Nola Cook was taken from the pauper roll, effective January 1, 1926.

An application of B. W. George, county attorney, asking that the salary of Miss Camille Jaffe be raised from $75.00 to $100.00 per month was read. It was brought out that a ruling had been received from the attorney general's department to the effect that this would have to be paid from the general fund. Upon motion of Commissioner Ben F. Guynes, seconded by Commissioner Jack Megarity, the salary of Miss Jaffe was raised from $75.00 to $85.00 per month as an assistant to the county attorney. This was made to be effective January 1, 1926.

Upon motion of Commissioner Megarity, seconded by Commissioner Guynes, the salary of W. M. Taylor, assistant county attorney, was raised to $190.00 per month, effective January 1, 1926, instead of a raise from $175.00 to $185.00, passed at a recent meeting of the court.

A contract has been entered into between Navarro county and the City of Corsicana for a block of land in Northwest Corsicana on the Chatfield road for a period of [illegible] years at a consideration of $1.00 per year. This tract of land will be used to store county tools and a shop will likely be placed there to repair county trucks and other tools. The contract stipulated that when the county ceased to use said tract of land, that all machinery and other property be removed.

The reports of the home demonstration agent and also the report of the colored farm demonstration agent were ordered filed in the county clerk's office.

The minutes of the meetings of the court January 11, 13, 16 and special meetings of January 27 and 30 were read and approved.

The expense accounts of County Judge Hicks and the commissioners and W. W. McClendon who made the recent trip to Austin relative to the road situation were allowed.

All of the commissioners with the exception of Commissioner Ruben Milligan were present at the sessions held Monday.

All Worn Out ?

So Was Mr. Williams Who Tells His Experience.

Are you tired all the time; worn-out night and day? Does your back ache as if it would break? Do you suffer dizziness, headaches, rheumatic twinges or distressing urinary disorders? You have good cause, then, to be alarmed about your kidneys. Do as many of your townfolk recommend. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. This Corsicana case is convincing:

L. L. Williams, 30 W. Fifth Ave., says: "My kidneys were run down and the secretions passed irregularly and contained sediment. My back hurt continually. Sharp pains stabbed through my back when I stooped and mornings my back was stiff as a board. I was weak, too. Three boxes of Doan's Pills, from McKinney's Drug Store, absolutely cured me of every sign of the trouble."

Vast Expansion and Advanced Equipment make New Prices Possible

The history of Dodge Brothers drastic price reductions is simple and brief.

A better and better product followed by greater and greater demand.

To meet that demand, an expansion of buildings and equipment involving an expenditure of more than $10,000,000.

Output vastly increased, with consequent reduction in the cost of materials and production.

Installation of advanced labor-saving and quality-increasing equipment. For instance, one giant steel-body press costing $10,000 replaces ten former presses costing $7,500 each, and does the work more efficiently.

Result: The finest line of vehicles in Dodge Brothers history at prices that seem incredible in view of Dodge Brothers traditional quality—

That seem more incredible still when considered in connection with improvements that include—

Rich and attractive new colors.
Smart and stylish new body lines.
Four dependable cylinders.
Absolute smoothness of engine operatio.
Greater power, snap and elasticity.

And advanced steel body and windshield construction that afford exceptional driving vision at a time when clear vision and safety are paramount in the mind of every motorist.

JUDGE HICKS SAYS ROAD DISTRICT NO. 1 NOT BEEN AFFECTED

COUNTY JUDGE HOLDS SUPREME COURT RULING NOT ON LOCAL DISTRICT

County Judge Warren Hicks announced Monday afternoon that the litigation pending in the Supreme Court of the United States relative to the Archer county road bonds does not affect Road District No. 1, Navarro county, because this district was created by a special act of the Texas Legislature.

The following is Section 37, special road law of Navarro county, which was cited:

"Sec. 37—The commissioners' court of Navarro county at any regular or special session thereof, by order entered on its minutes, may establish, describe and define by metes and bounds road districts within the limits of said county, other than political subdivisions thereof, and may designate such district by appropriate names or numbers, which said district or districts may include all or parts of one or more political subdivisions thereof, and may embrace within its limits any one or more incorporated cities, towns or villages, and may hereafter abolish, alter or change any such district in which bonds may not have been issued, and it is especially provided that 'Road District No. One of Navarro County, Texas,' defined, described and established by an order of the commissioners' court of Navarro county, on February 20, 1913, entered on record in its minutes, is hereby especially recognized and validated, but if at the election now ordered to be held in said district, on March 28, 1913, the bond issue shall be defeated then, and in that event, said commissioners' court may, at any regular or special session, abrogate, alter or change said district, and it is especially provided that no action taken or order for an election made by the commissioners' court of Navarro county under the General Statutes of Texas, shall be affected or in any wise invalidated by the provisions of this Act."

Some of the oil companies refused to pay said bond taxes, pending the settlement of the litigation. The most of the oil properties are in district No. 1 and District No. 11.

ANNULMENT SOUGHT WEDDING THAT OCCURRED IN DALLAS COUNTY JAIL WEDNESDAY

By Associated Press.

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 11.—Annulment of the alleged unauthorized marriage in the county jail between fourteen-year-old Lucille Wilson and Albert Hedrick, a prisoner, is sought in a suit filed here today by the district attorney.

The couple are alleged to have been secretly married when the girl entered the jail with a minister under the pretense of being a visitor.

The girl clasped the prisoner's hand through the bars and they were pronounced man and wife.

Hedrick is held on a statutory charge in which the girl was to have been used as a witness.

She cannot testify as she is his wife.

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 11.—Love always laughs at locksmiths, but if the story of Albert Hedrick and Lois Wilson be true love now has a joke also on jail bars, jailers, courts and judges.

Judge Earl Hurt a few weeks ago enjoined the proposed wedding of the couple, because Hedrick is held on a statutory charge in which Miss Wilson was the state's witness. The judge also ordered that the young girl be placed in control of juveline authorities.

But the lass slipped away from the juveline officers, and today announced that she had secretly wed Hedrick by clasping hands through the jail bars while on an ostensible visit.

Hedrick's attorney exhibited a license duly executed by the Reverend M. M. Dunn. The attorney said he had obtained permission for the girl and the minister to visit Hedrick. Jail officials unaware that the man was a minister, according to the story of the principals, allowed them to talk to Hedrick. As the prisoner and the girl clasped hands the minister pronounced them man and wife.

Officers are seeking the minister who is said to reside near McKinney. Some shadow is cast on the apparent romance by the incensed officials. They said that the girl, who is only 14, was induced to marry Hicks, aged 37, to save him from the charge, on the threat that if she didn't do so she would be sent to the state training school for girls at Gainesville. They are seeking to have the marriage annulled.

Mexia, Texas, Feb. 11.—Divorce cases are taken too cheap, says Judge J. Ross Bell, judge of the 87th judicial district, who points out that the attorneys take the case so cheap they depend on finding a sympathetic judge rather than going to the trouble to prove the statutory grounds for divorce.

Judge Ross, who grants most of the divorces in Limestone and Freestone counties says he does not know why his court should be so popular for divorce cases.

ADVERTISING CLUB HAD REAL ESTATE MEETING THURSDAY

LOCAL REALTORS BOARD WERE GUESTS—NOTED MUSICIAN FEATURE

The Corsicana Real Estate Board and banjo selections by Ralph Dexter, internationally known musician, featured the regular luncheon-meeting of the Corsicana Advertising Club Thursday at 12:30 o'clock at the Navarro Hotel. Harvey Armstrong was chairman of the program committee. The invocation was given by Rev. Eugene W. Potter, pastor of the First Methodist church.

J. M. Dyer, Sr., president of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce, called the attention of the club to the possibility of the securing of a gubernatorial candidate of Texas to open his campaign in Corsicana and, probably could get the headquarters for Corsicana. He stated that this would be a great deal of advertising for Corsicana. He also referred to the reported moving of the headquarters of the Republican party of Texas from Dallas and that Corsicana might have a chance to secure this.

W. J. Rochelle, general arrangements chairman for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet-meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, announced the meeting of the ticket committee at the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

A. A. Allison stated to the club that he was of the opinion that Hon. Lynch Davidson, candidate for the governorship of Texas, might be persuaded to open his gubernatorial campaign in Corsicana in the event that he was assured that the citizens here wished him to do so, as he had not made definite plans for the city to open his campaign as several cities were bidding for the opening speech.

Ralph Dexter, internationally famous banjo player, gave several selections which were greeted with much applause. It was announced that he would be at the T. J. York Company's headquarters until Thursday evening at 6 o'clock and everyone was invited to visit the York headquarters and hear him play.

President Earl Ellis announced that the meeting next Thursday would be in charge of Mrs. Tessie F. Dickeson.

Harvey Armstrong made an announcement concerning the Zimmer Harp Trio to be presented at the Corsicana high school auditorium Friday evening under the direction of the Corsicana Nevin Club, musical organization.

In his introductory remarks prior to the beginning of the Real Estate Board program, Mr. Armstrong stated that interest and friendly co-operation among the business interests of a city were necessary to build up a real city.

Charles G. Jester, president of the Real Estate Board, presided. He stated that with the luncheon clubs and the Corsicana Daily Sun, any good project could be put over for Corsicana.

Mr. Jester declared that Corsicana had a greater vision at the present time than at any other time in her history. He referred to the recent bond issue which will make many needed improvements and make the city a better place in which to live. He stated that with the bond issue, three and one-half miles of additional paving could be secured; the extension of the sewer connections will also give expansion an impetus; the new parks will add much to the attractiveness of the city and fill a long-time need; Lake Halbert, the Country Club, Navarro Hotel, office building, good school buildings and other features of the city were cited. Mr. Jester made the statement that the county commissioners' court had been to Austin recently and it was expected that the road from Corsicana to the State Orphans' Home would be paved.

Mr. Jester referred to the plant of the Texas Power and Light Co costing in the neighborhood of $8,000,000 at Trinidad on the Trinity River; he referred to the location of a huge plate glass company near Trinidad and also the discussion for the construction of a bridge over the Trinity River within the near future. He stated that a proposition had been made whereby the State highway department might be interested in this project in the event that Navarro and Henderson counties appropriated $10,000 each. It is expected that the bridge would cost approximately $100,000. The speaker stated that in the event that the bridge was constructed, Corsicana would reap much benefit thereby as that was essentially in the Corsicana trade territory in the event that a good road was secured from Corsicana to the river. He stated that many of the high officials connected with the work near Trinidad would make their headquarters in Corsicana and spend much money here in the event that a good road was secured so that they would be able to go to their work.

Mr. Jester referred to A. A. Allison as a man of vision and who was primarily responsible for the junior college idea for Corsicana.

Mr. Jester urged everyone to get behind the Chamber of Commerce in working for a bigger and greater Corsicana. He stated that the last statements of the banks of Corsicana showed that there was more than $9,000,000 on deposit in the Corsicana banks which showed that the community was in a good financial condition.

The speaker declared that the cotton [illegible]

this year was only slightly less than that of the year before and that the city and county started 1926 with a good outlook for a prosperous year.

Mr. Jester said that the real estate board had been formed to be of service to the city and referred to the appraisal board to be of service to the city.

M. L. Moore was introduced and stated that he had been in three cities where there had been oil development. He referred to Wichita Falls, Mexia and Corsicana. He stated that each of those cities had experienced a lull in activities and business after the oil development had died down but he referred to the conditions in each of the two other cities when wildcatting had found other production. He stated that when he came to Corsicana, sixty wells were being drilled and only one was completed for a producer, the Discovery well. He stated that the oil people were busy wildcatting now and several tests were being drilled in different portions of the county. In the event that other production is not found, many wells will be drilled to test out whether there is more oil in this county. He referred to tests near Powell, Richland, Eunreka, Blooming Grove, Corliet, Richland and other parts of the county. He stated that the big oil companies had their geologists located in Corsicana and in the spring, the Ennis territory would be thoroughly tested and probably as far south-west as Mount Calm. He stated that in the event that oil was found in the vicinity of this county, Corsicana would be the headquarters of the development.

The attention of the club was called to the speaking at the Navarro county courthouse Friday afternoon by Victor H. Schoffelmayer of Dallas, agricultural expert.

H. B. Bomar, secretary of the Real Estate Board, stated that the board was organized to help improve the business and make a profession. He stated that the realtor earned the money secured and observes a code of ethics and must conform to those ethics the same as a member of any other organization. He declared that the principles of the organization with which he was connected were very similar to those of the Advertising Club and were interested in the making of better homes, better citizens and the making of Corsicana a better place in which to live. He stated that all should [illegible] contracts in writing [illegible] that there would not be any misunderstanding.

Cal E. Kerr was introduced as the dean of Corsicana real estate men. He stated that Corsicana did not have to have additional oil development to grow and improve and that as soon as the present lull had subsided Corsicana would begin improving as Wichita Falls and Mexia had done. He appealed for good roads so that in the event that oil development in the vicinity of Navarro county was started, Corsicana would have good roads so that the city would still remain the hub of the oil activity.

A. M. Hendricks was introduced as a new member of the club.

E. S. Phillips of Dallas was in Corsicana Thursday.

SENATE RUNS WILD IN ORGY TAX CUTTING THAT REDUCES INCOME BEYOND HOUSE BILL

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Administration Republicans sought today to counteract the tax slashing orgy indulged in last night by the senate in adding $100,000,000 to its $352,000,000 tax reduction bill after voting to repeal the inheritance tax.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, hopeful that the storm had blown itself out overnight, sought today to round up enough strength to undo some of the action of yesterday, especially in view of the remaining provisions calling for tax cuts.

The total reduction of $452,000,000 provided by the bill at the close of work Wednesday is $125,000,000 over the figure provided by the house measure and the maximum set by Secretary Mellon of the Treasury Department.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 11—The senate added $100,000,000 to its $352,000,000 tax reduction bill Monday after voting to repeal the inheritance tax.

With the administration forces in rout as the taxes on automobile passenger cars and trucks, admissions and dues were voted out of the bill in rapid order, adjournment was taken until Thursday, when Chairman Smoot of the finance committee announced he would ask for reconsideration of some of the actions taken Wednesday and for a final vote on the bill.

Repeal of the inheritance tax, provided for in the bill as presented to the senate by its finance committee, was approved, 49 to 2, eighteen Democrats joining with thirty-one Republicans in supporting the proposal.

Declaring it a "damnable outrage to take the tax off the millionaires," Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, one of the sixteen Republicans who bitterly fought repeal of the inheritance levy, then led a group of Republicans in voting with an almost solid Democratic line-up for repeal of the other taxes acted on.

"Go ahead and ruin your bill," Senator Smoot shouted when repeal of the automobile passenger car tax, involving an additional reduction of $70,000,000 to the bill, was proposed by Senator King (Dem.), Utah.

The proposal was approved, 42 to 21, sixteen Republicans joining with twenty-five Democrats and the one Farmer-Labor senator in supporting Senator Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania, then appealed for a recess "in view of the storm," and the senate quit after nearly eight hours of discussion.

Repeal of the levies on admissions and dues, also proposed by Senator King, was accepted by a vote of 36 to 34. The finance committee had voted to cut $9,000,000 in revenue annually from this tax by increasing exemptions of tickets costing 50c and less to tickets costing 75c and less. Repeal of the tax adds $24,000,000 to the total reduction.

COTTON BELT DEMONSTRATION TRAIN BRINGS MANY FARMERS AND OTHERS HERE WEDNESDAY

The demonstration train bearing the Barnyard Broadcasters of the Cotton Belt System which is making a tour over its lines in the interest of better dairy farming, hog-raising, and poultry production, pulled out of Corsicana at noon Wednesday after making a stop here during the morning. The train was visited by a number of interested dairy farmers, swine and poultry breeders in and about Corsicana.

The train pulled into Corsicana from Hubbard Tuesday night, and opened its doors to the public at 9:30 till noon during which time lectures were given on the various phases of the industries represented by the experts in charge.

The train made a stop at Frost Wednesday afternoon and will remain all night there. Blooming Grove and Hillsboro will be visited Thursday. Large crowds have been the result of the attendance at the various places so far visited by the demonstration train.

The train is being put on by the Cotton Belt System in co-operation with the Texas A. & M., and the Department of Agriculture of the federal government.

It is composed of two cars of demonstration work in poultry raising and egg production, with attention given to the extermination of parasites and vermin that infest poultry, including lice, mites, fleas, ticks and bluebugs. Proper housing is also demonstrated, as well as proper rationing for poultry and increased egg production, which also carries methods of weeding out unproductive hens and the keeping up of the breeds. Several coops of various high breeds of chickens are carried in the poultry car.

The work of insect extermination extends to the hog and cattle parasites, and the treatment of mange and other common insect diseases found in horses and cattle.

Feeding of dairy cattle for increased butter and milk production is stressed, with lectures made to the visitors and handing out literature on the various phases of each subject.

Housing of hogs and dairy cattle is demonstrated along with the poultry housing and hatcheries is stressed, Butter and milk care, cream separation is given attention

In charge of the train are O. G. Babcock, entomologist for the federal department of agriculture, who is the special expert who has made a life study of vermin and parasite extermination of all insects affecting livestock and poultry; P. H. Walser, agricultural agent; C. B. Ry, dairy and swine expert; Craig Rosborough, agricultural agent, and G. V. McNallie, marketing agent.

County Agent H. Gentry, and Miss Elma Lawson, home demonstration agent for Navarro county were in attendance of the train during its exhibit here and assisted in disseminating the gospel of better dairy farming, hog raising and poultry production.

The attendance in Corsicana is not as large as it has been in smaller towns, those in charge of the train stated. However, the interest here was intense, and likely much more definite information was gained by those attending than wouuld have been the result had larger crowds visited the train.

CORSICANA ATTORNEY IS EULOGIZED BY FRIEND WHO SAW HIS INNERMOST SOUL

The soul of man is immortal—it does not die; it cannot die, because it is a part of the breath of God; it came down from the Father of Light and to Him it returns. The return of the body to the earth from whence it came, and which we discern with the physical eye but typifies the going back of the soul to Him who gave it being, and which we vision by spiritual sight. Some day the human race is coming to know that spiritual vision is the real vision—the one on which we can unerringly rely. through the ages some have known this, and more are realizing it today.

There is no death—that which to dim, flesh-clouded mortal vision seems so is but change, metamorphosis, transition. "There is no death—the stars go down to rise upon some other shore, and bright in heaven's jeweled crown they shine forever more," exclaimed the poet as a loved one was silently slipping away from him. And while this is only relatively so, for the stars do fade, it partially illustrates a great soul fact.

There is in man a fearless, deathless spirit. Unseen? Yes; for it is the unseen which is eternal; it is the unseen which is the real. The unseen is the same yesterday, today and forever. In all the realm of nature this is true. And all things ere ranged by mortal ken but verify this. Love, gravitation, principles of truth—they are, they were, they always will be; they are the real, the changeless, the deathless. What the Spirit-illumed mind of the Apostle Paul more fully grasped nineteen centuries ago the scentist of today is faintly comprehending. For "we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen; for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal."

So when on a late winter's afternoon, in the warmth and golden glow of a near-setting sun, bereaved loved ones and a host of sad-hearted friends gave back to Mother Earth in the silence of Oakwood cemetery the mortal, changing part of what we but yesterday knew as William Wallace Ballew, we no more buried the real man, whom so many of us honored, admired, loved and delighted to call friend, than Ceasar's soldiers, at the behest of the Jewish Sanhedrin, locked forever the Truth of God in Joseph's rock-ribbed tomb. When the cold and pulseless clay lying yonder in the tongueless silence of the grave has been dissolved into elemental dust, and that same bright-orbed February sun has become star mist. blown hither and yon by the winds of eternity, the God-given spirit of your friend, my friend—our friend—Brother Bill Ballew—for he was and is our brother—will be as young and as eager for the truth and right—as he saw the right—as it was in the heyday of his vigorous and intellectual manhood when he feared not the steel of any foeman, nor blanched at the fiercest fray; when like the proud-plumed Henry of Navarre he was ever where the battle raged the hottest, or like Ingersoll's plumed knight, ever ready to cast the shining spear of a well trained intellect at the burnished armor of any foe.

Standing one day amid a scene like that which saddened our hearts, but cheered our souls, Sunday afternoon, America's most gifted and eloquent agnostic, whose silver tongue and jeweled sentences oft wood great audiences, temporarily at least, to his way of thinking, said: "In the night of death hope sees a shining star and listening love hears the rustle of an angel's wing." Which was but a confession of the "hope which springs eternal in the human breast," of the "divinity which stirs within us." For it spite of our doubts and fears, our blasted hopes and bitter tears, there is in man an undying longing, an undeniable urge to become one with the infinite and the eternal. And gradually, but surely and certainly, we are coming to see and know that all man's hopes, desires, longings, aspirations, can be and are to be granted—fulfilled. Here again and in this very realm science is proving the truth of God. When I see what the Spirit-led intellect of man is doing I sometimes even dare to assert that the mind of man cannot conceive of the impossible.

Socrates. the great Greek philosopher and mystic, on the eve he drank the fatal hemlock cup, said: "No evil thing can happen to any good man in life or death." And David's wise son, with God-given wisdom, clothed the same truth in different language: "The upright of heart shall feel no evil thing." And I tell you William Wallace Ballew was a good and upright man. For near a quarter of a century I knew Him as it is given to few men to know another. To me he often unbared the secrets of his soul, and I was thus given to see the innermost recesses of his nature, to know the deeps of his mind, and to realize the longings of his big heart. I have known few men who desired so earnestly to know the truth. His fidelity to his convictions was deathless. Had he been a Christian believer of the centuries past he would have joined Peter the Hermit in inciting the populace to the crusades, fearlessly followed Richard Couer De Lion in his attempt to wrest Palestine from the Saracen, and gladly gone to the martyr's stake. I have seen him under the most trying and testing circumstances, and I never saw his courage fail.

Contrary to the opinion of some W. W. Ballew's was a forgiving nature. I've known him to forgive and love and help those who did him great wrong. While in belief we might not call him fully Christian, yet I tell you that in heart and practice he manifested the spirit of Christ more than many who call themselves Christian. I never knew him to refuse help and aid where it was possible to grant it. And if all to whom he ever did a kindness or spoke a word of encouragement should drop a single tear on his flower-covered grave it would be as wet as meadow grass on a dewy morning. And remember, "we live in deeds, not words," and that it's by our deeds and not by our professed beliefs and protestations of faith that we are to be reckoned with at the Great Assizes.

Billie Ballew had his faults, his foibles, his idiosyncrasies, and short-comings; but his faults were neither as numerous nor as great as were those of some of his erstwhile critics. And who has not faults? The biggest and the best of men, save one, have had and have them. Some one of great soul has said, "I love men because of their faults, for by their faults I know they are my brothers." And so I doubt not that when the frail life barque of Will Ballew found harbor safe and secure on the farther shore of life's sea "his eternal lot was cast with those who know no sorrow and can feel no pain."

"For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through Him might be saved." Yes, I'm fully aware of the generally accepted import of the preceeding verse, the great 3:16 of John: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." But neither am I unmindful of His statement in the Ninth of John when He told the questioning, critical, criticising pharisees that where there was no sight there was no sin. And I know that each one of us is blind in some one or more things. And I know that "the Father hath committed all judgment unto the Son;" that "He hath appointed a day in which He will judge all men by Jesus Christ;" that that is why He entered the womb of a virgin, was born in a stable, cradled in a manger, tempted of the devil—triumphing where Eve and Adam failed—walked, and worked, and hungered and thirsted with men, agonizing in Gethsemane, faced Pilate's court and the Sanhedrin's frown, suffered Calvary, stepped through the chambers of death into the coldness of the tomb and defying the powers of hell came forth more than conqueror over all three. He became one of us—"like unto His brethren"—was tempted like us, suffered with us, in order that He might be a merciful judge on the "day appointed."

And so I feel that when in the starlit silence of last Friday night the big soul of kind-hearted Bill Ballew slipped quietly from a pain-wracked, wasted and wasting body, and watching friends and weeping loved ones, and, chastened by suffering, stepped meekly but unafraid onto "eternity's golden strand," that the Savior of the world, the Redeemer of Adam's sons and daughters, with outstretched hands and benignant smile welcomed a prodigal home. And that when He showed him the prints of the nails in His hands and feet, the thorn marks on His brow and the spear thrust in His side, and gently said, "Brother Bill, I received these because I loved you;" that honest Bill Ballew, with poor doubting Thomas, then gladly confessed: "My Lord, and my Redeemer!"

I am led to make these observations because of the numerous long and earnest conversations I have had with Bro. Bill on these matters in the last two years, because I know his life, his heart and the hunger of his soul; and further because I have in these latter years come to know somewhat of the love a Heavenly Father has for his wayward, wandering children—which love He manifested in Christ Jesus—and to comprehend a little of the Divine Plan of the Ages as revealed in the much-neglected, much-abused, and much misunderstood and misinterpreted library of books called the Bible. And still further because more and more I am coming to see that the real enemies—the real mischief-workers to the cause of Christ and His Kingdom—are not the honest doubters, the so-called infidels and agnostics, but those of us of "large professions and little deeds," those of us who claim to believe much but do little, those of us who lay claims to casting out devils in His name but have not His spirit in dealing with our fellows. Yes, belief is important—much depends on a man's belief; but mere mental assent—mind confession—is not Christian belief; it is not the belief Abraham had when "he believed God and it was accounted unto for righteousness;" it is not the belief Paul had when the scales fell from his eyes in that room in a Damascus home, and that drove him to become the mightiest evangel the race has ever known; it is not the belief that has made men and women live the life of Christ down through nineteen long, weary centuries.

Under a mound of roses and other flowers, woven by the art of the florist into emblems of love and remembrance, with tender hands and saddened hearts we have consigned to Mother Earth—which he once thought might be all the universe had for mortal man—her part of her's and God's noble son—William Wallace Ballew. There also let us entomb the faults we knew or thought he had, and remembering and emulating his virtues, which were many, let us, his friends, and townsmen, and loved ones, meet life's duties and problems with the fortitude and Christian love he came to know they should be met. In home, in school, in church, in state, in business, in financial, industrial and social relations let us measure our every act and word by the Christ-set standard: "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you do ye even so unto them likewise." It is the greatest challenge that ever came to the sons and daughters of men, and some day a lot of big men and women—men and women to whom Christ has given "the power to become the sons and daughters of God"—are going to enter upon that high emprise, and that day "heaven is going to come down and kiss the earth." And why not we that have in these recent years said so many last earthly good-byes to friends and loved be of that number, and that today, for—

We're going down the Valley,
Going down the Valley,
One by one;
Going down the Valley
Toward the setting of the sun."

PLANS ACCEPTED FOR NEW CORSICANA SCHOOL BUILDING

ST. LOUIS FIRM AND CORSICANA MAN ARE ARCHITECTS.

According to announcement made Thursday by W. P. McCammon, president of the Corsicana School Board, final plans for the new school building to be erected at an early date on a lot owned by the school board at the corner of Fourth avenue and Thirty-first street, have been accepted and they will be in hand within the next few weeks.

The plans were drawn by Wm. B. Ittner & Co., of St. Louis, school building architects of note, and Harry Blanding is to be the supervising architect. It was stated that the plans call for a nine-room structure, and that a cafeteria and assembly room is to be included.

There will also be a four room addition built to the William B. Travis school, where the crowded condition of the building at present necessitates more room.

In Memory of

Gracie Belle Armstrong, who departed this life at their home in the Pecan and Blooming Grove communities, Navarro county, Texas, Wednesday, Feb. 3rd at 2:45 p. m. 1926, after a short illness of pneumonia and was buried Feb. 4th, 4 p. m. at Grange Hall cemetery near Cryer Creek, funeral services conducted at cemetery by Rev. H. B. Caraway of Blooming Grove and Rev. Rhodes of Barry.

She was such a kind and loving child, always striving for the pleasure of her schoolmates and friends, teachers and relatives.

To her memory may we dedicate these following lines:

Dear Gracie you have left us
Lonely are our hearts today
Death has of you bereft us
Taken you so far away.
You have crossed the cold dark river
Angels hold you by the hand
You are safe from storms forever
Safe within that promised land
How we miss your footsteps
Miss each kind and loving word
No more in this lonely household
Will your tender voice be heard,
Dearest Gracie how we miss you
No pen can write, no tongue can tell
But as the gentle Shepherd called you
We must bid you a long farewell.
But alas the Savior called you
Called you from his world of woe
And your spirit has ascended
From this earthly home below.
So fare you well dear Gracia
You have only gone before
And if we are but faithful
We shall meat you on the golden shore.

By a friend, Mrs. C.
